Bringing colour to kiwi life since 1946

Resene's big screen story began back in 1946 when Ted Nightingale started making paint from his Wellington garage. Over 70 years later and the Resene name lives on as a truly homegrown success story, known for its quality paint, colour and innovation. Our paints are designed and made in New Zealand for our harsh weather conditions and our colours are inspired by everyday kiwi life. So you can be sure they will look great in your home, while also looking after it.

WELCOME

Welcome to 2016 and to the 40th iteration of the International Film Festival in Christchurch. We've covered a lot of ground since the first one. Festival films had illuminated numerous city screens already long extinguished before the cinema landscape was so radically altered along with everything else in 2011.

Our arrival at the grand and fabulous Isaac Theatre Royal a year ago inaugurated a bright new era for NZIFF in Christchurch and the city responded with best-ever attendances. In an era when Sean Parker's Screening Room project has cinema-owners (once again) predicting the last gasp, there could be no more resounding vindication of what we do than those lively NZIFF crowds. All the more encouraging that Hoyts Northlands, who nursed us through the toughest of years, enjoyed a busy NZIFF too.

Where NZIFF lives, at the margins of that threatened mainstream, cinema-going in 2016 feels increasingly specialised, independent and personal. NZIFF maintains a curatorial tradition that happily seems more attuned than ever to this rapidly evolving environment. The experiences we offer here vary enormously in their need to be popular, or not so much; from expertly crafted crowd ticklers or gripping dramas to deeply felt eccentricities and passionate exposés. Every one of them stands to become that much richer for being experienced in the company of appreciative strangers.

The major sponsorship we receive from the New Zealand Film Commission is a gratifying institutional endorsement of the popular support that drives us. Buddle Findlay's sponsorship of our Opening Night enables us to thank many valued supporters in style.

We welcome 2degrees' sponsorship of our action-packed World cinema section. Resene join us for their third year as sponsors of a stunning bunch of New Zealand films. Flicks.co.nz and RadioLIVE remain lively, proactive media partners. Thanks too to Movie Max Timaru for keeping the flag aloft in South Canterbury.

Ultimately, it's the support of its audience that keeps our non-profit enterprise in action. Ticket sales contributed 88% of our income in 2015. But we never forget that filmmakers gave whatever it took to get these pictures into the world in the first place: we set aside 25% of our box office to go their way. We hope that filmmakers and filmgoers alike, like the characters gracing our poster art, you will find what you are looking for at NZIFF in 2016.

Poi E: The Story of Our Song

We open NZIFF 2016 with a joyful rendition of our national anthem – the one you can dance to. As irresistible as the song it celebrates, Tearepa Kahi's documentary explores the many tributaries that flowed into the mashup of pop music, traditional waiata and bop that first took New Zealand by storm in 1984.

Dalvanius Prime, the man who made it happen, enjoyed an international R&B career in the 70s. He returned from Sydney to Taranaki to nurse his dying mother and stayed to embrace his culture and Te Reo Māori. Collaboration with singer Prince Tui Teka led him to Māori language composer Ngoingoi Pēwhairangi. Together they composed 'Poi E': in this film you will hear the first ever recording, made soon after.

Adding embellishments that did not please his co-composer but impressed her mokopuna, he persuaded his Taranaki whānau, the Patea Māori Club, to perform it. A man on a mission, chihuahuas under each arm, he pulled together a diverse and talented bunch of collaborators to record the song and crowdfund a brilliant music video that, amongst other things, captured the vitality and pride of his hometown facing hard times.

The film, told largely in Dalvanius' own words, is brimful of music and frank and funny testimony from numerous participants in the song's richly peopled history. Taking a lesson from the man himself, Kahi draws the next generation into the story, ably assisted by Taika Waititi, who provides Stan Walker, aged 25, with essential information about what life was like before 'Poi E'.

We are proud to open NZIFF 2016 with Tearepa Kahi's irresistible Poi E.

Elle

Isabelle Huppert delivers a standout performance in this electrifying comeback from master genre disrupter Paul Verhoeven.

"Paul Verhoeven's Elle saw Cannes Competition 69 out on a high note. This beautifully judged drama/thriller is all about a provocatively powerful woman, much like Verhoeven's last Competition entry – Basic Instinct, which played back in 1992. Elle is that picture's equal, and, in a similar way, captures a new moment for film's femme fatale.

Elle, starring the unrivalled Isabelle Huppert, threads sexual intrigue with knife-edged danger, punctuated by the occasional relief of unexpected, uneasy humour. It's a film which could only have come from the hands of the Dutch master, back after a 10-yearabsence since Black Book – and how we have missed him.

Huppert has rarely been better as the head of a videogame company who is attacked and raped in her home by a masked intruder. This plays out, however, at the onset and is just a launchpad for Verhoeven to examine his career-long themes of power and domination afresh." — Fionnuala Halligan, Screendaily

"If our modern age is partially defined by outrage culture, trigger warnings, and sensitivity training seminars (all of which have their function) the glee with which Verhoeven and Huppert openly, even playfully, defy any concession to cultural correctness is breathtaking. The cinema of the #problematic may have just found its Citizen Kane." — Jessica Kiang, The Playlist GUY FRERANDIS / SBS PRODUCTIONS, COURTESY OF SONY PICTURES CLA

"Suspenseful and unsettling from first frame to last... This audacious, irony-laced, convention-jumbling tale is just plain fun to watch." — Lisa Nesselson, Screendaily Director: Paul Verhoeven

Closing Night

A Quiet Passion

Terence Davies' portrait of 19th-century American poet Emily Dickinson, played acutely well by Cynthia Nixon, may be the perfect match of filmmaker and subject. Even audiences unfamiliar with Davies' autobiographical classics (Distant Voices, Still Lives; The Long Day Closes) will surely feel the sway of an intense identification.

"From the very opening scene, in which a stern, shrew-faced schoolmistress addresses her matriculating pupils – including the young Emily Dickinson – on the importance of faith and the perils of nonconformity, it's clear we're in safe hands...

Only the first 20 minutes or so depict Emily's youth, and they may surprise with their light-hearted, quasi-Wildean repartee as the fiercely intelligent young woman exchanges opinions on life and art – and, more particularly, on the place of women in a patriarchal society – with her outspoken friend Vryling Buffam. But an ellipsis... speeds us forward into Emily's later years, where her lack of recognition as a poet, her growing loneliness and her frustrations regarding gender inequality and creative integrity make for an increasing reclusiveness and an ever more loudly voiced bitterness...

The film is not only a compelling and finally very affecting portrait of the poet as an ageing woman, but another entirely fresh variation on the themes that have preoccupied Davies since his earliest work. To put it simply, there are moments here that are utterly and gloriously Davies: no other filmmaker would have dreamed them up, let alone have executed them with such exquisite delicacy." — Geoff Andrew, Sight & Sound

"An exceptional film with a searing central performance from Cynthia Nixon."

The Rehearsal

NZIFF is thrilled to present the World Premiere screenings of Alison Maclean's hotly anticipated adaptation of Eleanor Catton's debut novel.

Unpacking the dramas that energise a class of budding young actors, The Rehearsal stars James Rolleston in the role of Stanley, a naive newcomer drawn to the city by his passion to make it on stage. While his new best friends indulge in wilder games, gentle Stanley tentatively romances 15-yearold Isolde (Ella Edward).

His sweet dreams may have found their nemesis in Hannah (Kerry Fox), the school's grandstanding senior tutor. Students must deconstruct themselves, she contends, before they can play at being anybody else. Stanley gradually bends to her taunting style, until, in one of the dazzling turns that stud the film, he earns her applause with a hilarious, treacherously accurate impersonation of his salesman father. Even murkier waters await when his class decides that a sex scandal involving Isolde's older sister should be intensively researched for their end-of-year show.

With Michelle Ny, Marlon Williams and Kieran Charnock providing vivid support to the young principals,

The Rehearsal carries a potent extratextual charge: there's enough talent in this fictional drama school to constitute a real-world new wave.

Like the novel, the film (co-scripted with Emily Perkins) is as attentive to the misleading effect youthful nerve can have on the 'mature' as it is to the crises the teachers so blithely incite in the taught. It's also its own sharp, original thing, a film by Alison Maclean, alive with ambiguity and cinematic verve. "I wanted it to be an intimate, authentic experience of what it's like to be a young person in New Zealand now."

Aquarius

In a year worth noting for the number of strong women behind and in front of the camera, the most winning for many in the NZIFF audience is bound to be Dona Clara, the indomitable protagonist of Aquarius. She is played with great authenticity and flair by Sonia Braga, the star of such landmark Brazilian films as Kiss of the Spider Woman and Dona Flor and Her Two Husbands. A music critic in her mid-60s, Clara is the last woman standing when developers propose to demolish the lovely old beachside apartment building in which she's spent the better part of a very full life.

"Kleber Mendonça Filho's stunning feature debut Neighbouring Sounds [NZIFF12] boldly announced a major new voice in Brazilian cinema... His much-anticipated follow-up is a more subtle film but no less mature, a calmer film but no less angry. Starring the incomparable Sonia Braga as a well-off widow holding on to her apartment against developer pressures, Aquarius is a character study as well as a shrewd meditation on the needless transience of place and the way physical space elides with our identity...

If the film feels as much Braga's as Filho's, it's because the director has presented this gift to her (and to the viewer) on a silver platter. A breathtakingly intuitive actress, she's beautifully aged into an aristocratically sensual physicality and makes Clara's firmness mingle with tenderness. The camera rarely leaves her, and we as audience value every moment we're in her presence." — Jay Weissberg, Variety

"Vibrant and bursting with life... an engrossing, intimate character study that manages to encompass plenty of universal truths."

I, Daniel Blake

British cinema's veteran social realist enters his eighties with a second Palme d'Or to his name after the Cannes Jury this year awarded his feisty new film the festival's highest prize.

"Fifty years since Ken Loach raged against homelessness in his television play Cathy Come Home, the British filmmaker has made a film infused with the same quiet but righteous anger about the failings of the society around him. I, Daniel Blake is the story of an unlikely but tender friendship between Katie (Hayley Squires), a single mother from London with two kids, and Dan (Dave Johns), a Geordie carpenter in his late fifties who's out of work and recovering from a heart attack.

Both Katie and Dan are feeling the sharp end of the shrinking welfare state: Katie has been forced to move her children north to Newcastle to find a flat; Dan is stuck in a nightmarish bureacratic limbo between work, illness and benefits... Forces beyond both are turning them into different people. Dan is community-minded, gentle, a laugh. At first, he's able to criticise, even laugh at, the system that's crushing him.

The tragedy of the film – and its rousing point – is that in the end it's all too much for one man, however much he takes a stand. Dan, and people like him everywhere, need a Katie watching their back; they need a community, a benevolent government, us." — Dave Calhoun, Time Out

"The quiet beauty of I, Daniel Blake – the reason it's the rare political drama that touches the soul – is that we believe, completely, in these people." — Owen Gleiberman, Variety "This is Loach – the humorist, the dramatist, the activist – firing on all cylinders."

Neruda

In this dense and scintillating mix of fact and fantasy, Gael García Bernal reteams with No director Pablo Larraín to play an obsessive (fictional) detective on the trail of the famed Chilean poet-politician forced into exile in 1948.

"A work of such cleverness and beauty, alongside such power, that it's hard to know how to parcel out praise... Neruda is not a biopic but an invention informed by biography, conjuring a richly detailed investigator with notions of selfgrandeur who's hunting the famed leftist writer-politician...

[Larraín] deftly mixes fiction with a form of truth, presenting Neruda not as the passionate romantic of his verse but a champagne communist very much tied to passing pleasures. Yet what Larraín makes clear by the finale is that who the artist is (any artist) is less important than what they inspire... Every bit the film's protagonist as much as the poet, Peluchonneau [García Bernal]... serves as both Neruda's nemesis and his creation, an ineffective plainclothesman assisting in the legend of the great man's persecution.

All the performances are outstanding: Luis Gnecco plays Neruda with a sense of entitled vanity, which occasionally slips to reveal the character's idealism and solidarity... But perhaps it's García Bernal who makes the greatest impression... Humorous, straight-faced and channeling any number of noir detectives with a post-modern twist that finally gives that misused concept a good name, the actor quite simply shines, once again proving himself one of the smartest performers around." — Jay Weissberg, Variety

"Neruda works most thrillingly as an effusive love letter to the very concept of fiction and all the ways it can set you free."

Paterson

"Writer-director Jim Jarmusch often explores existential themes, but they've perhaps never been so beautifully unadorned as they are in Paterson, a deceptively modest character piece that's profound and moving while remaining grounded in the everyday. Observing a bus driver (played with incredible grace by Adam Driver) over eight days, the movie turns the tiny details of its protagonist's life into a deeply felt consideration of marriage, love, compromise and the casual oddities inherent in being alive...

Living with his wife Laura (Golshifteh Farahani), a cupcake chef who dreams of becoming a country music star, Paterson (who just so happens to live in Paterson, New Jersey) goes through his daily routine, which includes jotting down some lines for his latest poem and stopping by his favorite bar every night...

Neither romanticizing Paterson's ordinary life nor patronisingly lamenting it, Jarmusch crafts a wonderfully precise portrait that's both specific and universal." — Tim Grierson, Screendaily

"It's about so many things: The energy that keeps even an economically depressed city's lifeblood thrumming, the closeness but also the inherent loneliness of couplehood, the way the things we do in our spare time can come to define who we are.

It's about love and poetry and dreams, and about the chance encounter that can close a wound with the magic efficiency of a tiny butterfly bandage. How you pour all of that into one movie is something of a mystery – but then, a good poem is always something of a mystery too." — Stephanie Zacharek, Time © 2016 MARY CYBULS

The Red Turtle

Studio Ghibli's first international co-production is a ravishing castaway fable that combines beauty, mystery, drama and heartbreak - with not a word spoken. It's a triumph for animator Michael Dudok de Wit.

"'If one day Studio Ghibli decides to produce an animator from outside the studio, it will be him', was Miyazaki's pronouncement after watching Dudok de Wit's Oscar-winning animated short Father and Daughter... Sixteen years after Father and Daughter, Studio Ghibli and Dudok de Wit's collaboration has come into being.

It begins in the middle of a storm. Grey waves and raindrops engulf the screen. In the corner, a tiny head surfaces and then sinks. The nameless man is washed up on a beach with bits of his broken boat. A crab crawls up his leg. When he goes to explore, the view pulls right back so all we see is a remote island while his cries ring out. His only company is a cast of crabs (such an apt collective noun!). Several times he tries to escape with a makeshift bamboo raft, but each time a mysterious force in the water breaks up his boat. Eventually he discovers his secretive aggressor: the titular red turtle

I'll leave it there with the plot, because you don't really want to know much more about a mythical fantasy like this one before you see it...

Pictures are the film's currency and they are, without exaggeration, sublime... The depth and texture on show here – conjured from a surge of pencil marks and watercolour washes – is remarkable. The film is a must for the big screen." — Isabel Stevens, Sight & Sound

"Dudok de Wit's hypnotizing, entirely dialogue-free The Red Turtle is a fable so simple, so pure, it feels as if it has existed for hundreds of years."

Toni Erdmann

Writer/director Maren Ade's epic comedy about a prankster dad's campaign to connect with his mortified workaholic daughter was the hands-down audience favourite at Cannes, and universally tipped to win. Assuming the persona of a clownish 'life coach', the eponymous anti-hero lays siege to the corporate lifestyle

"Trust in the creative impulse informs every aspect of the film, from Ade's dazzling script which has just enough of a classical comedic structure to support two hours and 42 minutes of surprises big and small, to her direction, which is designed to liberate the actors as much as possible while the camera rolls, to the performances (Simonischek and Hüller seem to be as amazed as we are by the things their characters lead them to do)...

The last 45 minutes contains four set pieces that take a film that is already great to a higher (say, The Rules of the Game) level, and the less you know about them in advance the better. Let's just say they involve a karaoke performance, nudity, a very hairy embrace, and finally, a from-theheart statement about how we could and should live our lives, which in almost any other film would seem like treacle, but here is thoroughly earned and provokes the tears that lay beneath the laughter all along." - Amy Taubin, Film Comment

"Long after this year's juries have disbanded and the world has forgotten who won this year's awards, the 2016 edition will best be remembered as the year Ms Ade gave us Toni Erdmann, a work of great beauty, great feeling and great cinema." — Manohla Dargis, NY Times

Chimes at Midnight

The consensus choice for Orson Welles' late-career masterpiece, Chimes at Midnight has been almost impossible to see in decent quality for many decades. We are delighted to present this new restoration.

Welles had long been fascinated with Shakespeare's English history plays. He produced a stage compendium of nine of them as far back as 1939, and by 1960 this had evolved into a stage production entitled Chimes at Midnight, which was compiled from the second tetralogy (Richard II, Henry IV Parts I & II, Henry V) and The Merry Wives of Windsor and focused on the character of Sir John Falstaff – the role Welles was born to play.

Welles then dedicated half a decade to securing financing for a film version. The project eventually came together – barely and with more than a little contractual sleight of hand – and Welles somehow managed to create an earthy, intimate epic on the smell of an oily rag, calling in a lifetime of accrued favours from an amazing cast of actor friends (John Gielgud, Jeanne Moreau, Fernando Rey, Margaret Rutherford). It's one of the greatest adaptations of Shakespeare.

The spectacular high contrast, deep focus black-and-white photography and Welles' punchy editing make this filmed Shakespeare of uncommon vitality. Perhaps most remarkably, given the economy of the production, Chimes at Midnight sports one of cinema's greatest battle sequences: inspired by Eisenstein, Welles turns the Battle of Shrewsbury into a barrage of sense impressions, an overwhelming mixture of mist, mud and chaotic brutality. — AL

McCabe & Mrs Miller

As vivid and haunting as the songs of Leonard Cohen that found an audience on its soundtrack. Robert Altman's indelible vision of two of the Wild West's most beautiful losers is restored to the giant screen. Warren Beatty and Julie Christie play an enterprising gambler and a cynical bordello madam, separate newcomers whose reputations have preceded them to the raw Pacific Northwest mining town of Presbyterian Church. Channelling attraction into a business proposition, they join forces to provide the miners with a superior whorehouse experience. The arrival of representatives of a mining company with interests of its own threatens their plans. (Deadwood fans will recognise the debt acknowledged

Forty-five years later, the apparent offhandedness of Altman's attention to story and dialogue feels integral to his evocation of elusive dreams and frail individual enterprises. The town, rising so randomly amongst the conifers, is said to have been built by a crew of US draft dodgers in British Columbia and the film was shot, unforgettably, in rain and snow by the late, great Vilmos Zsigmond.

Tokyo Story

Tokyo monogatari

Voted in Sight & Sound's authoritative 2012 poll the third greatest film of all time (and topping the list among directors), Ozu Yasujiro's sublime family drama is as relevant today as it has ever been, in a sparkling new restoration.

When elderly parents travel from their sleepy coastal town to visit their eldest children in Tokyo, life in the big city doesn't leave much time for hosting the old folks. Mild disappointments gradually turn into stealth tragedy when the mother falls ill on the way home.

Perhaps the most shocking thing about Tokyo Story is how completely recognisable the behaviours and attitudes are 60 years later, in an alien culture. Children and parents continue

Safety Last!

Christchurch Symphony Orchestra Live Cinema

The Christurch Symphony Orchestra puts the music back into two great classics of silent comedy. Marc Taddei conducts Carl Davis' original score for Harold Lloyd's Safety Last! and Timothy Brock's arrangement of Neil Brand's 2012 score for the classic Charlie Chaplin short, Easy Street.

"The most famous image of silent comedy – Harold Lloyd hanging from the hands of a clock, 12 stories above the streets of Los Angeles – represents only one of the great moments in what could be the most brilliantly sustained comic climax in film history. A marvel, and there's more in the fine character work that leads Lloyd up to the big moment. The other great silent comics defined their own worlds; Lloyd lives dangerously in ours." — Dave Kehr, Chicago Reader

Harold Lloyd was silent comedy's daredevil, cannily disguised as an average guy. In the 20s he was more popular than Buster Keaton and in more films than Charlie Chaplin. Though he made a pair of horn-rimmed glasses and a nerdy squint his trademark, he was as physically agile and as daring a movie actor as ever lived. In this most famous of his films he's a country boy determined to get ahead in the big smoke. Sending letters to his girl back home overstating his progress, to put it mildly, he's cornered into daredevil mode when she pays a surprise visit, and must scale a 12-storey building.

Safety Last!, with its department store setting and skyscraper-climbing antics, is as up-to-date a dispatch from 1923 as you will ever find, its zeitgeist jazzily accentuated by Carl Davis' score. The great care that Lloyd, and now his granddaughter Suzanne, have always taken with his film legacy help accentuate that freshness even further: in its recently created digital form, the film looks as good as new.

In Easy Street, Chaplin's tramp happily steals from the mission – until love strikes.

"Easy Street is an exquisite short comedy, humour encapsulated in the regular rhythms of light verse." — Walter Kerr The Silent Clowns

Marc Taddei conducts the scores for both films. A popular guest conductor throughout Australasia, Marc is currently Music Director of Orchestra Wellington and the Vallejo Symphony in California. His many Auckland Philharmonia Orchestra Live Cinema engagements have included an exhilarating The Wind in 2006, an eerily romantic Nosferatu in 2011, and Carl Davis' orchestration of Chaplin's score for The Kid last year.

Music for silent films has been an enduring strand of the prolific Carl Davis' activities. His 1980 score for Abel Gance's Napoleon triggered an extraordinary revival of interest in silent film, and Davis' oeuvre of more than 50 scores for this medium, including Flesh and the Devil, Ben-Hur, The Thief of Baghdad, Greed, Intolerance and The General, has brought him international acclaim.

Composer Neil Brand has been accompanying silent films for over 20 years. He has written scores for TV documentaries and radio dramas; music for theatre; two musicals and four radio plays; and is considered one of the finest exponents of improvised silent film accompaniment in the world. He has dazzled New Zealand audiences several times as a guest of NZIFF. Neil's score for Easy Street has been arranged for orchestra by another NZIFF Live Cinema regular, composer and conductor Timothy Brock.

NEW ZEALAND FILMS AT NZIFF ARE PROUDLY SUPPORTED BY the paint the professionals use

NZIFF is proud to provide big screen premieres for striking work made within our own horizons. In fact, it's one of our key objectives. In 2016 we platform four very different documentaries, two mighty programmes of shorts and some dazzling experimental work.

If this section seems a little tighter than in previous years, that's because New Zealand films take pride of place as our Opening Night and Centrepiece choices. See also Pietra Brettkelly's extraordinary foray into the film archives of Afghanistan (p36) in Framing Reality.

Apple Pie

Shot on 16mm celluloid across parts of New Zealand and Samoa, interdisciplinary artist Sam Hamilton's ten-part experimental magnum opus makes thought-provoking connections between life on Earth and the cosmos, and, ultimately, art and science. Structured around the ten most significant celestial bodies of the Milky Way, Apple Pie's inquiry begins with the furthest point in our solar system, Pluto, as a lens back towards our home planet and the 'mechanisms by which certain aspects of scientific knowledge are digested, appropriated and subsequently manifest within the general human complex'. Christopher Francis Schiel's dry, functional narration brings a network of ideas about our existence into focus, while Hamilton's visual tableaux, as an extension of his multifaceted practice, veer imaginatively between psychedelic imagery and performance art.

The centrepiece of the film is a striking sequence involving dancer loane Papali'i, whose limbs are tied by long strands of rope to a tree. His struggle, perhaps, is one of trying to deviate from the blueprints of reality, a fundamental aspect of our species' most constructive faculties, says Hamilton. — Tim Wong

The heART of the Matter

Under the leadership of a legendary director general of education, Clarence Beeby, the years immediately after World War II saw the most remarkable shifts in educational philosophy New Zealand had ever experienced.

Luit Bieringa's documentary traces those changes and the army of men and women who worked to establish a thoroughly bicultural and artscentred education system. Gordon Tovey, national supervisor of arts and crafts, and his team of artists and art specialists fostered the lively and colourful classrooms that New Zealand is familiar with today, in stark contrast to the rote-learning environments preceding them. Contributing art specialists included Cliff Whiting, 🖖 Luit Bieringa*

Para Matchitt and Ralph Hotere. Critically, they ensured that aspects of Māori art such as kōwhaiwhai, kapa haka and waiata had a central place in our mainstream classrooms through in-depth consultation with Ngāti Porou kaumātua Pine Taiapa. Replete with archival interviews and little-seen footage, this film is likely to transport any Kiwi-educated boomer back to school, but its richly storied excavation of the past is as clearly pointed towards the future as once were its public-servant heroes.

Le Ride

Phil Keoghan, television personality, adventurer and bike enthusiast, pays tribute to a little-known Kiwi sports hero by duplicating one of his most remarkable feats in this documentary.

In 1928, New Zealander Harry Watson and three Australian cyclists teamed up to compete in the Tour de France. Racing as an untested team of four, the Australasians were conspicuously raw amongst the elite ten-man European teams, but they were tenacious and learned fast.

The race was designed to eliminate as many riders as possible – and so, one might think, were the bikes. Most of the roads were unpaved and the heavy steel bikes weighed twice as much as a modern racing bike. More riders failed to finish the 1928 Tour de France than any other Tour in history: 168 riders began the arduous 3,500mile race; only 41 finished.

Following the 1928 route around the perimeter of France 85 years later isn't always exactly possible, thanks to vastly increased traffic and motorway systems, but Keoghan and mate Ben Cornell are determined – some might say recklessly so – to get as close to it as possible. Travelling the 3,500 miles (5,600 km), in 22 stages over 26 days on restored vintage bikes with no gearshifts, they keep pace with the daily progress (if not the number of blow-outs) related by Watson in his vivid journals.

Handsomely shot, and rich in fascinating detail and photographic evidence of Watson and his teammates' epic achievement, Keoghan's film feels their pain so that you don't have to. It's a stirring salute. We're delighted to present the World Premiere screening in Harry's hometown, and Phil's too. NZIFF proudly presents the world premiere of Phil Keoghan's tribute to a kiwi hero.

The 5th Eye

If our PM or the relevant public servants feel truly comfortable about New Zealand's participation in the Five Eyes intelligence alliance, it doesn't show when they are seen explaining it, defending it, or downright refusing to talk about it in this doco. Filmmakers Errol Wright and Abi King-Jones embed those TV interviews, parliamentary declamations and media ops in a concise history of New Zealand's post war dependency on the United States.

For lucid, more confidently-held commentary, the filmmakers turn to inveterate watchdogs such as Nicky Hager and Jane Kelsey, but evolve a position of their own through the accumulation and agile juxtaposition of some very telling material. When the GCSB has been so often in the news, there's likely to be an audience, less heroic perhaps, that's simply grateful to this film for providing a salutary, blow-by-blow account of the GCSB's misadventures – and their expanding powers to make suspects of all of us.

Longtime collaborators Adam Luxton and Summer Agnew, creators of the singular Minginui (NZIFF05), return to their experimental roots with this 'speculative documentary' on landscapes of ruin, and the three explorers who dive deep into the abyss. Aboard the state-of-the-art research vessel Tangaroa, coral scientist Di Tracey surveys the Chatham Rise seabed to document the impact of deep ocean trawl fishing. Wandering through Christchurch's eerie post-quake CBD, Bruce Russell, a sound artist and founding member of seminal noise band The Dead C, philosophises on urbanisation and regeneration through improvised soundscapes and his own highly evolved thought patterns. In Argentina everybody knows about the Puccio Clan case. In 1985 it was discovered that a spate of kidnappings and murders had been the work of the Puccios, a well-established Catholic family with five children from San Isidro, a high-class suburb of Buenos Aires. They had held the hostages in their basement, then, after the ransoms had been paid, murdered them. Mama Puccio and the daughters were allegedly oblivious, but the sons were up to their necks, none more so than golden-haired national rugby star Alejandro (Peter Lanzini), used as bait to attract victims by the controlling paterfamilias. It is largely through the conflicted eyes of young Alejandro that the story unravels, but Guillermo

The Daughter

Drawing together a dream ensemble that includes Geoffrey Rush, Sam Neill, Miranda Otto and incendiary teenage newcomer Odessa Young, The Daughter is the feature debut of acclaimed Australian stage director Simon Stone. Building on his theatrical modus operandi of modernising 19thcentury Russian texts, he reimagines for the screen his hugely successful stage adaptation of Ibsen's The Wild Duck, updated to 21st-century small town Australia.

Paul Schneider is Christian, a prodigal son returning after many years to his rural hometown, for his father's wedding. He finds the world he knew pushed into a deepening decline hastened by his father's recent closure of the local saw-mill. His return brings with it the unravelling of a deep rooted family secret that threatens to break apart the lives of the few remaining townspeople, and those once closest to him. The film mines lbsen's themes of class and sexual division to suggest they are still painfully real in the contemporary world. — TW

"Australian cinema is known to engage with long-standing familial feuds... but debut feature filmmaker Simon Stone, writer, director and enfant terrible of Australian theatre, may have fashioned its most atmospherically striking bloodline squabble yet.

There are note-perfect performances from the pedigreed cast and Stone spreads the love so that nobody and everybody steals the show... While The Daughter is no lark, however, it also exists on a level that distinguishes it from most other dramas: it is a mood piece told with a lyrical energy both lush and dangerous." — Luke Buckmaster, The Guardian "Australian director Simon Stone, along with big names Geoffrey Rush, Sam Neill and Miranda Otto, take Ibsen's The Wild Duck to dark new places."

Endless Poetry

Poesía sin fin

A young man dives into the artistic life of 40s Santiago and pursues a dream of becoming a poet in this carnivalesque memoir from the perennially youthful great-grandfather of cult cinema, 87-yearold Alejandro (El Topo) Jodorowsky.

"A work of transporting charm and feeling. It's the most accessible movie the director has ever made, and it may also be the best. Jodorowsky is on record as saying that his favorite filmmaker is Federico Fellini, and indeed, the ghost of Fellini hovers over Endless Poetry in more ways than one can count... But more than that, it has an ingratiatingly wide-eyed and adventurous autobiographical hero, Alejandro Jodorowsky (played by the filmmaker's youngest son, Adan Jodorowsky), who meshes with the bohemian enclave of Santiago in the 40s and 50s and wanders through this nightworld of sex and art and passion and destruction with a fervour of discovery...

Endless Poetry is still very much a Jodorowsky film, dotted with his trademark phantasmagorical conceits, which are like candified bursts of comic-book magic realism. Land of Mine

Under sandet

Former enemies struggle to recognise their shared humanity in this moving and tension-filled drama that draws on a seldom discussed episode from the end of World War II. Winner of awards and audience prizes at several festivals already, Land of Mine acknowledges Denmark's punitive treatment of young German POWs held in Denmark after the Nazi surrender.

The film's protagonists are put to work to search out and disarm mines that had been buried on Danish beaches by the Nazis in anticipation of an Allied invasion. At first, the Danish sergeant Rasmussen (Roland Møller) supervises his youthful charges with vengeful severity. A solitary individual but for the company of his faithful dog, he shows no hesitation in visiting the sins of the Third Reich on its youngest sons, mere boys conscripted as German manpower dwindled.

Gradually, though, the taskmaster finds himself at odds with those whose orders it is his duty to enforce. The tension is absolute, but never needlessly ramped up in Martin Zandvliet's direction: humane concerns are very much at the centre of his surprisingly poignant film.

"It might seem hard to find a World War II story that hasn't been told, but Danish director Martin Zandvliet has come up with a fresh and compelling approach... [Land of Mine] rediscovers the past and brings it to life with remarkable assurance... This kind of plea for compassion will never lose its relevance... Land of Mine serves up another vivid rendition of this always timely theme." — Stephen Farber, Hollywood Reporter

"Land of Mine shows us what happens after a war, it's a story of survival and of forgiveness and redemption, of rediscovered humanity." — Vittoria Scarpa, Cineuropa

A War

Krigen

A tense, measured investigation of the moral ambiguity of combat, Tobias Lindholm's rattling new military drama has already proven its international resonance, securing an Oscar nomination in the Foreign Language slate earlier in the year. A War follows the trials of a compassionate military commander (Danish player Pilou Asbæk), who, in the chaos of a firefight, makes a decision to save his men that has disastrous consequences. As the drama shifts from war zone to war trial, Lindholm proves as skilled in evoking the madness of the battlefield as he is in exploring the ethical ramifications that unspool from it.

The Country Doctor

Médecin de campagne

This gentle, good-humoured film about a doctor (François Cluzet) facing illness himself and reluctantly inducting a younger city doctor (Marianne Denicourt) into his country practice has been a great hit in France. Upholding the humane values embodied by the old style GP, it has clearly touched a vein of nostalgia which may run just as deep in New Zealand. Co-writer and director Thomas Lilti is himself a qualified medical practitioner, and not one given to sentimentality. (Anyone who saw his film Hippocrates at this year's French Film Festival can vouch for the refreshing sense of experience that lifted it apart from standard hospital dramas.)

Cluzet (Intouchables) is fascinating as an immensely recognisable character, single (with an adult son in Paris), wedded to his work, seriously empathetic beneath the brusque, brooking-no-fools demeanour. Denicourt as Natalie is an excellent foil, the doctor's match in so many ways, but shrewdly respectful of his self-defining conviction that he is irreplaceable. It's a view clearly shared by a lively array of farming folk who parade through his surgery, or, in some of the film's most touching and memorable scenes, usher him, doctor's bag in hand, into their houses.

"The Country Doctor finally plays out as a strongly observational character drama that suggests something about who these people are and how they deal with what's thrown at them while also painting a convincing picture of everyday life in rural France in the 21st-century and medical care... The film bristles with humor, mostly drawn from life, and illuminating moments of irony." — Boyd van Hoeij, Hollywood Reporter

"This perfectly formed and gently amusing drama from doctorturned-director Thomas Lilti is a real pleasure."

The Innocents

Les innocentes

Anne Fontaine's (Coco avant Chanel) compelling and affecting drama The Innocents illuminates events that occurred in Poland in the aftermath of World War II, placing women's experiences of war very much at its centre. Mathilde (Lou de Laâge), a young doctor with the French Red Cross, is entreated by a desperate young nun to make a secret visit to a nearby abbey. She arrives to find a young sister in labour. Mathilde is soon drawn into the intensely private world of the nuns as they confide the nightmare of the 'liberating' army that led to their predicament. Severely traumatised, some have refused to admit even to themselves that they are pregnant.

Concealing her involvement from the Red Cross, Mathilde seeks allies in the convent where many remain cowed by a grim hierarchy determined to suppress all evidence of their 'shame'. She also enlists the support of a colleague, a Jewish doctor whose hopes of impressing her must outweigh his bitter scepticism about Polish Catholic piety. Elegantly shot and superbly performed in Polish and French, Fontaine's war film eschews graphic depictions of violence to delineate and uphold the common humanity of those who foster renewal in its wake.

"The Innocents is a lovely ode to healing through solidarity... Kudos are due to Anne Fontaine for not only finding a tale not often seen, but imbuing it with a feminine perspective so often erased from wartime narratives... We've held up many wartime heroes from this era, and this unsung heroine deserves to be celebrated among them." — Monica Castillo, RogerEbert.com "Anne Fontaine's finest film in years observes the crises of faith that emerge in a war-ravaged Polish convent."

Things to Come

L'avenir

Isabelle Huppert is in mesmerising form as Nathalie, a philosophy teacher in her 60s withstanding a succession of hurtful losses and tempering a lifetime's self-assurance with admirable composure.

"A wondrously assured look at a philosophy teacher going through what might be described as a midlife crisis... were it not for the stoic fortitude and keen appetite for life with which she responds to whatever befalls her... Mia Hansen-Løve creates and sustains a light, delicate tone while never downplaying the difficulties of an unexpected, unwanted lifechange. She's helped enormously by a supremely witty, touching, utterly truthful performance by Isabelle Huppert as the protagonist – though the rest of the cast lend more than sterling support." - Geoff Andrew, Sight & Sound

"The film oozes with such effortless alchemy between director and actor that it's hard to believe Mia Hansen-Løve, who also wrote the script, is not more advanced in years (the writer-director is still only 35). She does, however, draw directly from her experience of growing up with philosophy teachers as parents to provide this book-laden corner of Parisian upper-middle-class life with its stamp of authenticity – and humor... Due in no small part to the strength of Huppert's subtly emotive performance, the manner in which Nathalie simply carries on without carrying on (i.e.: without suffering a total breakdown) is so refreshingly... female... Ultimately she finds solace and security in her books and her ideas – in short, in herself." — Emma Myers, Brooklyn

MUSIC BOX FILMS

Aleksandr Sokurov, best known for Russian Ark, his historical fantasia shot in the galleries of the Hermitage, moves his cameras now to the Louvre. Produced with the full cooperation of the museum, Francofonia evokes the history of the great Paris art museum and its vast collections, from the Renaissance to the present day. Mythic and historic figures wander the halls, not least Napoleon, whose plundering of the Middle East ironically preserved many great works of art from destruction in subsequent wars. Alert to the vexed role of Western museums in the ebb and flow of conquest and civilisation, Sokurov pays close attention to the remarkable events at the Louvre during the Nazi occupation. Mixing re-enactment and archive footage, the film focuses on Jacques Jaujard, staunch Deputy Director of the French National Museums, one of the few public servants not to flee his post, and the rapport he cultivated with Count Wolff-Metternich, appointed by Hitler to commandeer France's prized art collection. "It's a truly bracing, provocative movie, and of course, as is always true with Sokurov, it's a visual feast." — Glenn Kenny, RogerEbert.com

Like Crazy

La pazza gioia

Two institutionalised women help themselves to a break from psychiatric care in this disarming blend of comedy, social observation and tender psychological drama. The latest film from Italy's Paolo Virzì (Human Capital, NZIFF14), Like Crazy was one of the brightest surprises at Cannes this year.

At Villa Biondi, a congenial Tuscan retreat for women in recovery, the aristocratic Beatrice (Valeria Bruni Tedeschi) queens it over staff and fellow patients alike. A voracious snoop and fantasist of the first order, she's the most outrageously guickwitted liar any of them have ever met. When newcomer Donatella (Micaela Ramazzotti) is admitted to the Villa, she's in a pitiful state. Beatrice makes the wretched Donatella her project. She love-bombs the younger woman, dragging her out on a rather classy crime spree, assuming perhaps that her own fabulous self-entitlement will prove inspiring. Over the course of several crazy days they pay calls on some of the key contributors to their current plights. What we learn along the way fleshes out movingly realistic pictures of them both. A great script, two bewitching performances and a superb supporting cast earn our tears and our laughter in equal measure.

"A terrific comedy-drama about two women in a mental institution that avoids the pitfalls such a scenario could encounter... boasting a deliriously loquacious script together with a rare understanding of how to balance certain Italian caricatures with a grounding sense of realism... Neither Valeria Bruni Tedeschi nor Micaela Ramazzotti have been better." — Jay Weissberg, Variety "The film's freewheeling energy is as appealing as its developments are unpredictable."

God Willing

Se Dio vuole

In this Italian hit comedy, an atheist cardiac surgeon, Tommaso, has his staunch lack of faith pushed to the limit: his teenaged only son gets God, after falling under the influence of a charismatic young priest. Tommaso is further horrified when his wife and daughter also undergo a renaissance. With a sharp script, agile direction and spot-on performances all round, God Willing performs a shrewd balancing act in a famously Catholic country. It is as dubious about the dogmatism of the hardcore atheist (hello, Richard Dawkins) as it is about the longevity of youthful religious zeal. The bantering bromance that grows between Marco Giallini, in the prize role of Tommaso, and studly Alessandro Gassman, as

After the Storm

Umi yori mo mada fukaku

This characteristically worldly, affectionate and wryly amusing family drama was this year's Cannes entry from NZIFF's favourite Japanese director, Kore-eda Hirokazu. It centers on handsome, charming Ryoto (Abe Hiroshi), a formerly successful novelist who pines for his ex-wife, the pretty Kyoko (Maki Yoko) and his 12-yearold son Shingo (TV actor Yoshizawa Taiyo). Working as a private detective to support a serious gambling habit, he seems an unlikely prospect for remarriage, but when they are stranded together at his mother's home during a typhoon, he sees a chance to reunite.

"A young divorced dad tries to get back into the good graces of his ex-wife and son in After the Storm, a classic Japanese family drama of gentle persuasion and staggering simplicity from Kore-eda Hirokazu. As sweet as a ripe cherry at first glance, it has a rocky pit, as viewers who bite deeply will find out... This bittersweet peek into the human comedy has a more subtle charm than flashier films like the director's child-swapping fable Like Father, Like Son [NZIFF13] but the filmmaking is so exquisite and the acting so calibrated it sticks with you." - Deborah Young, Hollywood Reporter

"Kore-eda's love for his characters, his ability to imbue an exchange or glance with warmth and humor, keeps us watching. You can lose yourself in his films – wondering what's around every corner, and what's going on in the mind of even the most minor of characters... He remains one of the best filmmakers the world has." — Bilge Ebiri, Village Voice

"Even long-standing fans of the Japanese filmmaker might be taken aback by the supreme subtlety of his latest, achingly beautiful ode to the quiet complexities of family life."

Truman

Since the success of the Argentinian thriller The Secret in Their Eyes, actor Ricardo Darín has gone from national hero to international star. This February he won Spain's Oscar-equivalent, the Goya, for Best Actor for his beautifully layered performance in the Spanish drama Truman. The film itself, a warm, understated and frequently humorous tale of male friendship in the face of imminent mortality, in fact scooped the awards: Best Film, Director (Cesc Gay), Original Screenplay and Supporting Actor (Almodóvar favourite, Javier Cámara).

Darín plays Julián, a stage actor diagnosed with terminal cancer, making the very most, as stylishly as possible, of the time left to him. Director: Pedro Almodóvar

"This deceptively tamped-down film may not have the audacity and emotional force of an Almodóvar masterpiece, but it reveals his mastery nonetheless. Cámara is Tomás, a teacher who left years ago to start a new life in Toronto. He returns to Madrid, unsure how he can best serve his old friend. The two men wander old haunts, recall the past, try putting right a few old wrongs, notably with Julián's son, and most important of all, seek a new owner for his beloved bullmastiff, Truman. Their rapport brings out the best in both actors and finds ample gentle laughter in a very moving story.

A Perfect Day

Commanded by an impressive roster of talent, including Benicio Del Toro and Tim Robbins, this ensemble tragicomedy strikes just the right balance of bracing levity and sobering truths. An ode to the efforts of aid workers during the Bosnian conflict of the 90s, A Perfect Day follows five of them as they attempt to hoist a sizable corpse out of a village water well before it poisons the local supply. Finding some rope for the job is just one of the many challenges that ensue. As the team navigate villages of rabid dogs, trigger-happy children and landmines, the film's title quickly finds its ironv

Sunset Song

A long-cherished project for director Terence Davies, Sunset Song tells the story of a young woman coming of age on a farm in northern Scotland on the cusp of World War I. Like Lewis Grassic Gibbon's 1932 novel on which it is based, the film is closely attuned to the moods of landscape and sky. If its lush visual poetry strikes a chord with Canterbury audiences it may be, at least in part, because some scenes were shot in Selwyn.

"Agyness Deyn's soulful face tells the story of Sunset Song in an instant, as her expression tilts between vulnerability and determination... the film is set just before the First World War, and Deyn plays Chris Guthrie, a schoolgirl with a deep love of learning, a key to another life beyond her family's farmhouse in Aberdeenshire. The phrase 'modelturned-actress' often has negative connotations, but not so for Agyness Deyn." — Kate Muir, The Times

"It features an exceptionally strong central performance by Agyness Deyn as Chris, the bright daughter of a brutish farmer (Peter Mullan in top form)... With great exactitude, Davies traces how Chris's bleak future as her father's housekeeper is averted and where life takes her, imbuing the action with an unostentatious tenderness and eliciting uniformly lovely performances from the rest of his cast. As a study in hardship, brutalizing family life, and romantic loss, Sunset Song is a deeply felt return to territory with which the director is intimately familiar... Nothing short of sublime, Sunset Song ranks with The House of Mirth and The Long Day Closes among Davies's finest achievements." — Gavin Smith, Film Comment

Captain Fantastic

In this energetic and touching dramedy, Viggo Mortensen kids his own image, playing an anarcho-survivalist solo dad. In a remote Washington state forest, he's raising his six children to be super-fit in body and mind. These mini philosopher kings are equally confident stalking a deer, skinning it, critiquing Lolita, Middlemarch and The Brothers Karamazov, or improvising a musical jamboree around the campfire. Santa Claus is a joke, but they do get festive for Noam Chomsky's birthday.

This idyll of off-the-grid existence is challenged when their mother dies in a New Mexico hospital. The long road trip to rescue her from the Christian funeral planned by her conservative parents may well remind you of Little Miss Sunshine. The kids are confronted for the first time with 'normal' American life. They've never seen fat people before. But nor have they seen their father subjected to the onslaught of criticism coming from his in-laws. The fantastic dad is obliged to defend his rigorous regime - and the film's register moves from affectionate satire to a more heart-tugging evocation of the joys and pitfalls of education.

"It's always tricky using a modifier like 'fantastic' in a movie's title, because if the film doesn't live up to it, the snarky review headlines just sort of write themselves. Sadly for copy editors the world over, Captain Fantastic won't have that problem. Not only is it wonderful – it is heartfelt, comedic, gorgeous and just the right amount of sad." — Brian Moylan, The Guardian

"Anna Gunn (Breaking Bad) dons power suits to star in a female-centric thriller set on Wall Street... Equity is a smart thriller set in the corporate world that disguises its modest budget with an intelligent script and a good set of hooks. Everybody Wants Some!!

"Can there be any doubt by now that Richard Linklater is America's most relaxed and guietly ambitious filmmaker? After all but reinventing the coming-of-age movie with his 12-yearsin-the-making Boyhood... the director now serves up a deceptively simple comedy. Everybody Wants Some !! is about nothing more (or less) than the weekend shenanigans that transpire on a Texas college campus in August 1980. The school's rowdy baseball team returns, welcoming freshman pitcher Jake (Blake Jenner, a clear-eyed find) with the kind of genial hazing - 'fuckwith-ery', the newbie calls it - that brings to mind Linklater's Dazed and Confused (NZIFF94). Wife Kathy (Jennifer Ehle), a therapist, is the breadwinner. The shy Jake is befriended, to everyone's delight, by the outgoing kid downstairs, Tony (Michael Barbieri), whose Chilean mother (Paulina García of Gloria) rents the shop on the ground floor for her dressmaking business.

Midnight Special

"Jeff Nichols [Mud, Take Shelter] is a distinctively Texas filmmaker; his work is giant yet personal, tackling huge ideas on an intimate scale. His latest is a masterful blend of road adventure, family drama, and science fiction, in which two estranged parents, the goons of a Jeffs-like cult leader, and the federal government are all after a remarkable child with inexplicable powers. As with his earlier Take Shelter, Nichols is using his large canvas to ask pressing questions about faith and belief, all the while acknowledging his story's loudly ticking clock and relentless momentum. The matter-offact effects and bluntly efficient action beats are marvels, but the real power here is in the connections between parents and child, and the tenderness of their interactions. Nichols does so many things so well, and all at once, that it sort of takes your breath away." – Jason Bailey, Flavorwire

"Built around a performance of formidable gravitas from Michael Shannon... Midnight Special confirms Nichols' uncommon knack for breathing dramatic integrity and emotional depth into genre material. The film also benefits from the formal elegance of its two-act structure, the first part unfolding mainly in the secrecy of night, and the second in the glaring vulnerability of daylight... In all departments, from script to performances to technical execution, Nichols' film is a rare throwback to mesmerizing sci-fi for grownups."

Les Démons

The moment you see him amongst the school children at the start of Les Démons, skirting the fringes of a freeexpression dance class, the piercing gaze and wary physique of child actor Edouard Tremblay-Grenier mark him instantly as uncannily watchable.

In this rather wondrous film, drawn from his own childhood by masterful young writer/director Philippe Lesage, the fears and unruly impulses that fill the head of ten-year-old Félix are keenly observed in those all-suspecting eyes. So, thankfully, is the sheer joy of refuge provided to a small boy by a pair of adoring older siblings. (Every Frenchlanguage film about growing up has to have a bedroom dancing scene, and these three are granted an all-time best.)

Félix frets about his parents' rows, or a shot of a missing kid on a TV news bulletin. He misconstrues overheard adult conversations or believes the trash other kids talk about homos, AIDS (it's the 80s) and the preference of serial killers for victims exactly his size. Lesage's recollection of the power plays and inter-group dynamics amongst kids is right-on and often funny: Félix is watching closely too, and it will be his own experiments with power that eventually unsettle him the most.

Lesage lays grand symphonic scores – Bach, Sibelius – onto the drama of childhood with remarkable aplomb, but his boldest move is to introduce us to a genuine threat hiding in plain sight in the film's world of swimming pools and leafy suburbia. Parents of young children may wish to look away. For others, this anatomy of innocence, at once visceral and highly evolved, may prove a remarkably clarifying evocation of childhood apprehensions long forgotten.

"A daring, exquisite study of agitated child psychology that marks Québécois filmmaker Philippe Lesage as a name to watch."

Heart of a Dog

This riveting cinematic essay from legendary avant-garde performance artist Laurie Anderson is a punk meditation on love and death. The 68-year-old's philosophical interrogation leads us through an intensely moving (yet not sentimental) journey beginning with the death of her piano-playing dog Lolabelle. Pondering safety and freedom, Anderson deftly glances off the terror of the American post-9/11 state and then, two unprocessed childhood traumas later, lands us at the Buddhist concept of Bardo (the 49-day post-death period). Anderson's mother is another spectre in this story, while not mentioned but felt viscerally is the loss of her husband Lou Reed, who passed in 2013.

Tanna

Filmed pre-Cyclone Pam on the island of Tanna in Vanuatu, this stunningly photographed film tells the star-crossed story of Wawa, a young woman who has fallen in love with her chief's dashing grandson, Dain. When an inter-tribal war breaks out with a neighbouring community, the young lovers are forced to choose between their own happiness and the common good. Mythic in its simplicity, the film is based on a true story that took place in 1985 and carried significant ramifications for the evolution of tribal society.

Working closely with the indigenous community, acclaimed Australian filmmakers Martin Butler and Bentley Dean have expanded on their previous documentary work to produce a ravishing cinematic expression of traditional culture.

"Dean and Butler spent seven months living with the Yakel, a tribe whose customs and lifestyle have changed little for centuries. During this time the filmmakers were told of a great love story from the recent past. The result was a screenplay written in close collaboration with the Yakel and performed predominantly by its members...

Very much about female experiences and rites of passage in a society whose foundations are shifting, the picture surrounds [its heroine] Wawa's daring actions with enriching observations by her mother and grandmother... Performed with conviction by actors who'd never seen a film or a movie camera before, the picture is a stirring tribute to the power of love and will likely prompt many viewers to shed tears of sadness and tears of joy." — Richard Kuipers, Variety

"With its magnetic cast and Venice award-winning cinematography, this film treads the familiar theme of star-crossed lovers with shimmering vitality."

Much Ado About Nothing

Aquí no ha pasado nada

Basing his story on a notorious case in Chile where a middle-class kid took a manslaughter rap for the son of a one-percenter, writer/director Alejandro Fernández Almendras embeds his taut anatomy of affluenza in a seductive evocation of high-flier hedonism (with a great soundtrack).

Lacking funds after a year studying in LA, Vicente (charismatic Agustín Silva) heads back to his parents' beach house on the Chilean coast without a plan. Two girls who come on to him at the beach invite him to a lavish house party. More than a few shots are consumed while he tries to figure out whether it's him they are into or each other. Later that night the three of them are still working on it in the back of someone's car when the car stops and there's an incident of some kind that barely penetrates his consciousness. The next morning Vicente is visited by his new friends and told exactly what he's going to say to the cops.

Silva contributes handsomely to Almendras' schema as the coolly disaffected millennial barely acknowledging that the system he holds in such disdain thinks even less of him. The Spanish title is more accurately translated as 'nothing to see here move along'.

Neon Bull

Boi neon

The sinuous physicality of the central characters in this Brazilian slice of life is rendered all the more tantalising by the unpredictability of their desires. The erotic tension in Neon Bull is remarkable, and, as you may have already heard, finds release in a prolonged and tender sex scene, at once monumentally strange and sublimely simple. Centred on a cowboy working the pens on a backcountry rodeo circuit, the film draws us into a tough, macho world in which gender roles are much less prescribed than you might assume. Broad-chested, handsome Iremar (Juliano Cazarré), his peroxide blonde boss, Galega, and the streetwise young daughter, Cacá, whom she treats like a sister, constitute a tetchily functional makeshift family. The intriguing Iremar holds himself apart from the earthier pursuits on offer – a botched raid on a prize stallion's precious bodily fluids notwithstanding. His aspirations lie away from the pens: Galega, we discover, moonlights as an exotic dancer and it is Iremar who designs and sews her costumes. If you think you see where this is heading, you are bound to be wrong, but don't be surprised if you feel elated beyond reason when Iremar scores his fleeting taste of heaven.

Animation for Kids 8+

NZIFF 2016 presents not one but two Animation for Kids collections – with each film guaranteed to amuse, entertain and inspire curious young minds and indie-animation-loving grown-ups alike.

We've searched high and low, and near and far, to present a selective slate of the best animation for all ages from all corners of the world. These animated gems from eight countries offer a terrific range of diverse adventures, and a whole load of opportunity to fuel imagination and make greater sense of our world.

The Eagle Huntress

Thirteen-year-old falconry prodigy Aisholpan is ready to train her very own eagle to catch foxes in The Eagle Huntress - ending two millennia of Kazakh-Mongolian tradition that dictates this practice as the exclusive rite of men. Executive produced by documentary filmmaker Morgan Spurlock and Star Wars heroine Daisy Ridley, the film, set in the glorious remote Altai Mountains, follows Aisholpan as she bravely undertakes all aspects of ancient eagle hunting tradition. — NM

"Step aside, Katniss! Make room for Aisholpan, the 13-year-old eagle huntress from Mongolia. For 2,000 years, the Kazakh people of the Altai region in western Mongolia have practiced a tradition of hunting with golden eagles... though this practice has traditionally been the domain of men, Aisholpan decides that she wants to become an apprentice hunter after spending her childhood helping her father, a renowned eagle hunter, care for his birds. Under the tutelage and support of her father and her grandfather... Aisholpan learns all aspects of falconry, from taming her very own eagle to training for an annual competition, where she will compete against 70 eagle hunters on her quest to gain acceptance.

Featuring breathtaking cinematography and intimate footage, this film not only explores the life of a young girl striving to pursue her passion and break down gender barriers in a very traditional culture but also provides an engaging glimpse into the lives of this remote community, as they balance their traditional lifestyle with the modern world " — Sundance Film Festival

The profusion of excellent documentaries submitted to us is staggering. We try to steer a course that favours formal sophistication and complexity, while allowing ourselves on occasion to fall for the most forthright advocacy and appeals to the heartstrings. Documentaries have always shared the spotlight with dramatic features at NZIFF. You will find more fine examples filling the Aotearoa section of the programme and in the sections that follow. Also in our Big Nights, Fresh, For All Ages and Incredibly Strange sections. In other words, documentaries are everywhere at NZIFF.

Embrace

This rousing documentary by Australian body image activist Taryn Brumfitt should prove a most effective tool in her popular campaign to counteract the gazillion pressures on Western women and girls to fixate on appearance. We're delighted to welcome Taryn to present NZIFF's premiere screenings ahead of the film's New Zealand release.

She traces her project back to the epiphany she experienced while contemplating cosmetic surgery for her post-baby body. She subsequently posted an unconventional before-andafter photo spread: Taryn in her earlier, competitive body-builder role alongside her 'after' photo, a plump, delighted mother of three. This was seen by more than 100 million worldwide and sparked

A Flickering Truth

The fourth feature-length offering from New Zealand documentary filmmaker Pietra Brettkelly (Māori Boy Genius, NZIFF12) follows filmmaker Ibrahim Arify as he returns from exile to his native Afghanistan with the intention of restoring thousands of hours of Afghan films – banned under the Taliban government – for the nation.

Arify's task is not easy and his frustration is immediately felt as he struggles to unearth reels of film – some found hidden in ceilings and discovered by pure chance – as well as deal with a workforce too scared to act after so many years of oppression. As the project slowly comes to fruition, the importance of his work hits home: Taryn Brumfitt* Director/Screenplay: Taryn Brumfitt Australia 2016 | 90 mins Producers: Anna Vincent, Taryn Brumfitt Photography: Hugh Fenton Editors: Bryan Mason, Lindi Harrison Festivals: Sydney 2016

All ages, shapes and sizes are included in the film's empowering embrace.

Another Country

A companion piece to her partner Rolf de Heer's Charlie's Country (NZIFF14), Molly Reynolds' trenchant, wryly measured documentary is addressed explicitly to non-Aboriginal Australia. The concept is simple and delivered with devastating clarity: David Gulpilil, Charlie's Country's (and Australia's only) internationally renowned indigenous star, tells us the history of the community of Ramingining in the Northern Territory that he calls home. He provides laconic commentary on successive government projects to control the lands of the Yolngu people, to put the people to work, eliminate their ancient cultures and corral random groups into fixed communities where no towns stood before. Even if the general history is painfully familiar, there's such vitality in his anecdote and such mettle and gallows humour in his delivery that you're likely to experience this movie bolt upright in your seat.

"The richness of the film arises from the earthy elegance of Gulpilil's narration matched with the uncluttered beauty of Reynolds' photography. Her cameras, which explore the rural town, feel nothing if not embraced by the community...

Anchored by an acute sense of place, Gulpilil and his co-writers see Ramingining as something of a microcosm. It's a location with a history – starting with its construction in an illogical place – and is symptomatic of countless other communities. Also, it acts as a case study to springboard discussion of wide-reaching ignorance towards issues around compatibility of Indigenous and non-Indigenous communities." — Luke Buckmaster, The Guardian

Fire at Sea

Fuocoammare

A tiny island of around 6,000 people, Lampedusa lies 205 kilometres from Sicily and 113 from Tunisia. Superbly shot by filmmaker Gianfranco Rosi, this documentary provides an indelible and compassionate double portrait of the island's traditional community and the humanitarian crisis thronging its shores. Disarmingly, Rosi puts a 12-year-old local boy at the centre of his picture. Like boys since time immemorial, Samuele roves the island waging war on flora and fauna with his slingshot. He's a touchingly earnest kid, determined to overcome the handicaps of wobbly sea legs and a lazy eye. Rosi cuts constantly between Samuele's homely world and the high-tech Lampedusa of sea rescues. Late in the film, sustained coverage of the evacuation of African refugees from an appallingly crowded boat confronts grim reality with unforgettable clarity. The most explicit link between these worlds is Samuele's doctor, who tends with equal kindness to locals and stricken refugees. Rosi's film demonstrates how that principle must be enacted on a dauntingly large scale, while keeping a tender eye on a 12-year-old boy preparing to grow within the horizons he knows.

Life, Animated

Director Roger Ross Williams received a Sundance directing prize for this dynamic documentary about Owen Suskind and his equally extraordinary parents. Owen, now aged 23, is graduating from a special needs educational institute and into his first solo living situation, something his parents never expected possible.

Twenty years ago, they watched their three-year-old son stop talking and retreat into an unknowable autistic reality. Watching Walt Disney movies was one of the few family activities he enjoyed. Years later, almost deemed unreachable, Owen suddenly speaks, describing his older brother in relation to The Jungle Book and Peter Pan. From there the story is remarkable.

The playful Disney sidekick characters in particular engaged his sympathy, while their uncomplicated, vividly conveyed feelings showed a way for Owen to process his own. Later, following bullying at his high school, he obsessively drew an imagined league of Disney sidekicks where 'no sidekick would get left behind'. He set up his own 'Disney Club' where he and his friends still discuss the emotional nuances of Disney movies while singing along to the musical numbers. He finds a girlfriend.

With intimate family footage, close personal interviews and Disney clips, the film is beautifully enhanced with original animations by French company Mac Guff. It's a moving and powerful story of an ongoing search for connection and expression. With the support of a loving family and a bunch of brightly coloured cartoon characters. Owen finds a way to triumph, negotiating the tough realities of his life and heart. — JR

Lo and Behold: Reveries of the Connected World

For his latest trick, the tirelessly curious Werner Herzog (Fitzcarraldo, Cave of Forgotten Dreams) turns his camera on the internet. The German maestro is no digital native – he eschews even a smartphone – but this proves a boon, liberating Herzog to explore the digital future as if a tourist.

Starting at the UCLA site where the first internet message was typed – a 'holy place' – Herzog leads us on a whistle-stop tour, encountering online evangelists and prophets of doom, organised under ten chapter headings He travels to the town of Green Bank, where locals have settled because proximity to a telescope prohibits radio waves and cellular signals; to a laboratory where robot footballers are being constructed; to the home of a family tormented online following the death of a daughter; a self-driving car developer; internet rehab clinics. Elon Musk, a high-priest of digital entrepreneurship, preaches the importance of humans colonising Mars. 'A one-way ticket?' chirrups Herzog. 'I would come along'.

Veering from impish exuberance to almost apocalyptic scepticism, the inimitable Herzog manages to extract frank and unorthodox responses from his interviewees, many of whom may be more accustomed to speaking in Ted Talk slogans. His abiding fascination: whether 'the internet can dream of itself'. — Toby Manhire "The virtual future may be now, but Lo and Behold, with its stimulating volley of insights and ideas, always

Free to Run

This illuminating, clip-laden account of the history of running over the last 50 years begins by detailing the long fight against antiquated athletic authorities to open up participation in competitive events, and to allow women to compete at all. After a single finish-line collapse at the 1928 Olympics, the sport had been deemed unsafe for women, who were banned until 1960 from events over 800 metres. In 1976, Kathrine Switzer was physically assaulted by officials as she challenged the gender barrier by competing gender-incognito in the Boston Marathon.

Inspirational figures, like Bobbi Gibb, Fred Lebow and the charismatic Steve Prefontaine, also defied the establishment's closely guarded rules Director: Pierre Morath Switzerland/France/ Belgium 2016 99 mins Producers: Jean-Marc Fröhle, Fabrice Estève, Marie Besson Photography/Editor: Thomas Queille Music: Kevin Queille, Polar With: Bobbi Gibb, Kathrine Switzer, Noël Tamini, Fred Lebow, Steve Prefontaine, Franck Shorter In French and English, with English subtitles to professionalise the sport. Swiss documentarian Pierre Morath provides a telling exemplar for the sport's popularisation in his fascinating account of the chequered fortunes of the New York City Marathon, suggesting that commercial pressure may be turning long-distance running into an exclusive pursuit once again.

The richest stories in the best newspapers are often buried away on the obituaries pages. In Obit, Vanessa Gould meets the people who write them for the New York Times – practitioners of a form which has 'nothing to do with the death and almost everything to do with the life'.

Notes on Blindness

"In 1983, after years of failing sight, John Hull, a professor of theology in Birmingham, England, became completely blind. Soon after, he began keeping an audio diary... The understanding he reached, through years of quiet and sometimes painful probing, was profound: Oliver Sacks called the published version of Hull's diaries 'the most extraordinary, precise, deep and beautiful account of blindness I have ever read'.

In this penetrating and eloquent documentary, filmmakers Peter Middleton and James Spinney have mined Hull's original tapes as well as interviews with Hull and his wife to evoke Hull's inner world. The film combines the voices of Hull and his American politics is replete with bizarreness, but the story of Anthony Weiner takes some beating. The Democratic congressman hit global headlines in 2011 when a photograph of his genitals appeared on Twitter. Denials that he had posted the image quickly fell apart, along with his reputation, as numerous earlier dick-pic peccadilloes were splashed across the media.

Weiner

In this engrossing, highly entertaining fly-on-the-wall film we meet Weiner two years after his resignation, in the early stages of a redemptive bid to become the mayor of New York City. He has rebuilt his relationship with wife, Huma Abedin, the top aide to Hillary Clinton. He is politically reinvigorated. Early polls put him at the top of the Democratic pack. But then the wheels fall off: more pics emerge, sent - crucially - well after Weiner's public apology. The tabloid circus returns. Weiner insists he'll plough on, as members of his team revolt. Abedin stares, disbelieving. Somehow, the camera is allowed to go on rolling too – even as the campaign culminates in unimaginable ignominy. with Weiner scurrying through a McDonald's to evade 'Pineapple', the code name for an aspiring porn star who received Weiner-pics and is keen to leverage some publicity. The reality for Weiner is less The West Wing, more Curb Your Enthusiasm.

For all his cringe-making hubris, however, the film depicts a more complex Weiner than the media caricature. Abedin, meanwhile, is enthralling: a picture of stillness, the antithesis of a man who, by his own admission, possesses a 'virtually unlimited ability to fuck up things'. - Toby Manhire

"With its ringside seat to a Shakespearean fall from grace, Weiner easily stands out as the paragon of its genre."

For almost four years, Chinese filmmaker Zhang Zanbo documented the construction of a massive highway through a rural district in Hunan Province. Organising his often startling up-close footage into chapters, he reveals a project rife with corruption, violence and cynicism. His success in showing events from the conflicting perspectives of three constantly skirmishing sectors makes this a singularly comprehensive indictment. Dislocated peasants see their homes literally dynamited, and clamour for compensation. Migrant workers regularly risk their lives for paydays that never seem to arrive. Fending off their demands, the embattled construction company also juggles dubious alliances with local Party officials, police and gangsters. Through it all, a gargantuan new symbol of Chinese industrial power takes shape to cut a swathe across mountain and valley. Whether it will pass safety requirements or even conform to legal construction standards is anybody's guess when government building inspectors arrive. Or are they too persuadable? Director Zhang has himself suggested that the title might not refer just to the Xu-Huai Highway, but also to the road taken by China.

Think globally, act locally: you've heard it effective. In Copenhagen, nearly 70% before, but this stimulating documentary makes it news, showing some great ideas for doing just that, translated into action. Refusing to be overwhelmed by the prospect of global meltdown, actress-filmmaker Mélanie Laurent and ecological rights advocate Cyril Dion resolved to make a film that would energise people who they reasonably assumed already knew the worst.

Upbeat, without ever denying the scale of the challenges, Tomorrow travels the world to meet an array of resourceful activists and organisers working to make the world a more sustainable place. Whistle-blower testimony sits at the heart of two of the films in this section honouring those who risk it all to shed light in the darkest corners.

Chasing Asylum

Drawing on an abundance of whistleblower testimony and stealthily shot footage, Australian filmmaker Eva Orner (producer of Alex Gibney's Taxi to the Dark Side) exposes the squalid cruelty of the notorious detention centres established by the Australian government to house asylum-seekers on Nauru and Manus Island. Claiming, not inaccurately, that they carry the mandate of the Australian people, a succession of Australian prime ministers stonily insist that the net effect of the centres is humanitarian: by making it clear that asylum seekers are unwelcome, they have saved thousands from the clutches of ruthless people smugglers. Jim: The James Foley Story

You probably already know the story of the death of James Foley, the American journalist kidnapped in Syria, imprisoned then beheaded by ISIS in 2014. The video of his execution released by the killers became as ubiquitous an announcement in Western media as they had intended.

"Brian Oakes' film is an attempt to highlight the human being behind the appalling news story: the ardent, energetic, and above all compassionate journalist and person he was. Jim is divided roughly into two parts. The first is a fairly breezy chronicle of Foley's upbringing, including his time as an increasingly dissatisfied Teach For America instructor. He was bitten by the foreign-correspondent bug when Investigative journalism meets conspiracy thriller as Alex Gibney (Going Clear, NZIFF15) goes on the trail of Stuxnet, the extraordinary computer virus that metastasised around the world before it arrived at its target. Iranian nuclear facilities. and perform its mission: exploding uranium-enrichment centrifuges.

Undeterred by muzzled officials, the indomitable Gibney shows how Stuxnet - or 'Olympic Games', as its architects called it - was cooked up covertly by the US and Israel, creating a new level of virus complexity and a new class of weapon. One of Gibney's sources, dramatised as a composite individual and played by a digitally reconstituted actor (one of many striking visual effects), says the worm may never have come to public attention had it not been for a unilateral Israeli move to recalibrate Stuxnet's code and accelerate its impact. A wider operation had to be abandoned, and Tehran retaliated in kind, attacking US institutions with malware and parading its own burgeoning 'cyber army'.

Gibney manages not only to illuminate in plain terms how Stuxnet worked, but to also issue a powerful warning about the Pandora's box it opens. Echoing ideas explored in his WikiLeaks film We Steal Secrets, Gibney argues that in the face of an emerging cyber-conflict threat, which is analogous to that of nuclear weapons many decades ago, international norms and rules of engagement must be developed outside the shadows of denial. — Toby Manhire

"As refugees flee from the Syrian conflict in their thousands, this intimate doc captures the experiences of a single family battered by truly daunting circumstances. Before the outbreak of the civil war, filmmaker Sean McAllister encountered husband Amer and infant son Bob, hoping that wife and mother Raghda – a pro-democracy activist - would return from a brutal prison term. International pressure prompted her release, but that proves to be just the start of an odyssey which sees McAllister himself briefly jailed, and the family fleeing via Lebanon to a new start in the West.

With up-close access to indigenous Peruvian activist Alberto Pizango, and a damning assemblage of news reports, this documentary provides a gripping account of years of struggle. Filmmakers Heidi Brandenburg Sierralta and Mathew Orzel lay out the overwhelming imbalance in power between those acting to conserve their natural environment and those determined to monetise it. They also draw on interviews with several of Pizango's antagonists, notably a former Lima police officer who has come round to Pizango's side.

Police who died were granted massive state funerals, while Pizango was demonised as a murderer, conspiring to hold the nation to ransom. Public anger pulled back the government from some of the flagrant constitutional abuses Pizango had protested, but he remained a wanted man, forced into exile. In the film's present we see him return stoically to Peru to face the music, and hopefully resume the struggle.

Carlos Saura, a veteran chronicler of Latin music and dance, turns his attention to Argentina to record an all-star cavalcade of contemporary folklore performers. The Dancer

La Danseuse

This gorgeously mounted Belle Epoque drama presents a fictionalised account of the rise and fall of Loïe Fuller, the American-born pioneer of modern dance (and theatrical lighting design) whose 'serpentine dance' took Paris and then the world by storm. French singer-songwriter Soko plays the dancer, opposite Gaspard Ulliel, with Lily-Rose Depp, the daughter of Vanessa Paradis and Johnny Depp, as her friend and rival Isadora Duncan.

"Combining furious movement, billowing costume, and theatrical lighting, it's not hard to imagine how the shows would have astounded audiences more than a century ago. The film doesn't disappoint with its rendition of Fuller's iconic pieces, either. Both on stage - where an incredibly agile human form whirls and twirls until it disappears into a storm of shifting shapes – and out in nature – as a group of female dancers becomes one with the misty forest under her guidance – first-time director Stéphanie Di Giusto turns these sequences into feats of electrifying elegance aided by artful production design, textured costuming, and fluent cinematography...

Soko has both the willful masculinity and a feminine vulnerability down.

Playing Louis, Ulliel is his usual charismatic self, exuding an effortless, pansexual allure that enriches a rather underwritten character infinitely. And though she only appears later in the film, Depp positively dazzles as Isadora. With her elfin litheness and an almost contemptuous self-assuredness, she owns the screen during every appearance." — Zhuo-Ning Su, The Film Stage

Cameraperson

Kirsten Johnson is a cinematographer who's worked on some of the most notable documentaries of the past 20 years: Fahrenheit 9/11, The Two Towns of Jasper, Very Semi-Serious, Citizenfour and many more. Drawing on footage she's shot for countless other directors, she's assembled in Cameraperson a unique memoir of the images she says have most marked her. Her selection of personal encounters in some of the world's most sorely troubled locations may initially seem random – until the absence of narrative purpose draws us into another level of enquiry about what we are witnessing and how it is marked by the cameraperson.

movie footage makes us intensely aware that the eye that watches as ostensibly untended children in Bosnia play with an axe is the same eye that falls on her own darling twins. By the time we see several scenarios fully played out, the invisible cameraperson feels like someone we're beginning to know. It may not be possible to watch this fascinating, beautifully layered film without thinking hard about the power and the limitations of the camera - or the documentary medium itself - as an instrument of compassion.

Miss Sharon Jones!

"The incendiary soul singer Sharon Jones already had a few fans in the room when Barbara Kopple's documentary Miss Sharon Jones! made its world premiere during the Toronto International Film Festival. By the end of the movie everybody in the place had a jones for Jones. The narrative arc of the film is the diminutive ('four foot 11 and a quarter') singer's more than year-long battle with cancer - and her return to performing. But by lavishing huge helpings of Jones' music and explosive performances on what is a very intimate portrait, the two-time Oscar-winning Kopple keeps the doco from ever becoming maudlin, or predictable, or from even slowing down." — John Anderson, Indiewire

"Jones has a deep and forceful voice, and her stage presence and energy are equally electric, which leads fans and critics to liken her to James Brown. Forging a professional career as a musician isn't easy for Miss Sharon Jones, though, as the singer recalls how an executive at a major label told her she was 'too black, too fat, too short, and too old' to make it in the business... There's no denying that Miss Sharon Jones paid her dues a-plenty...

As much as Kopple objectively portrays Jones's experience kicking cancer 'in the ass' (to use the singer's sassy terminology), she never defines this soulful performer by her illness. Sharon Jones is a fighter and a survivor, Kopple shows, whether she's breaking through barriers in the music business or beating cancer. Both are ruthless beasts and she trumps them." — Patrick Mullen, POV Magazine

"Jones' music will always be her legacy, but thanks to Kopple's portrait we got a chance to see her soul." — Peter Debruge, Variety

Our Last Tango

Un tango más

Our Last Tango documents a love story involving perhaps the most famous couple in tango history and their shared passion for the partnered dance. Now in their 80s, María Nieves Rego and Juan Carlos Copes met when they were 14 and 17 respectively, and have danced together for nearly 50 years. Off the dance floor, they loved and hated each other in equal measure, broke up and reunited, but always generated sparks as performing partners. Now toward the end of their lives, the pair share their tempestuous personal history with a group of young tango dancers and choreographers in Buenos Aires who transform the couple's personal drama into sizzling dance numbers.

The German-Jewish philosopher Hannah Arendt left her indelible imprint on 20th-century thought by coining the concept of the 'banality of evil' when reporting on the 1963 trial of Nazi war criminal Adolph Eichmann. This discerning and joyous documentary includes many of the backstories of the fascinating ensemble members: Damascus-born clarinetist Kinan Azmeh; Iranian exile and acclaimed kamancheh player, Kayhan Kalhor; Wu Man, master of the Chinese stringed instrument, the pipa; and the exuberant Spanish bagpiper Cristina Pato, known as 'the Jimi Hendrix of Galicia'." — Leah LoSchiavo, San Francisco International Film Festival Punctuated by moments of unadorned performance – a boy dances on a tin roof in one – the documentary focuses on individual personalities and not socioeconomic factors, but it makes it clear that there are numerous children whose creative instincts just need a little nurturing. Both Leonard and Wide Open Sky refuse to accept stereotypes, and the reward for that is illuminating and joyous." — Craig Mathieson, The Age

PROUDLY SPONSORED BY

"A savage and utterly brilliant satire of both 60s social idealism and the Thatcherite values that undermined it, High-Rise opens with a dishevelled man (the ever-sublime Tom Hiddleston) eating barbecued dog on the balcony of his trashed apartment, some 25 floors up. Director Ben Wheatley (Sightseers, Kill List) and regular collaborator and screenwriter Amy Jump tear into J.G. Ballard's classic source novel with brutal gusto.

Hiddleston's character, Dr Robert Laing, has just taken ownership of his luxurious apartment whose lofty location places him amongst the upper echelons. He is immediately drawn into and seduced by the louche culture of nightly cocktail parties, where conversation

Operation Avalanche

Let's be honest: we're all a bit over the faux documentary sub-genre. So let's hear it for Canadian Matt Johnson with his devilishly clever cinephile meta-take on the Apollo Moon landing. It's 1967, the height of the cold war, and the CIA suspects a Russian mole is inside NASA sabotaging the programme. Two chipper young agents, disguised as filmmakers capturing NASA's race to the moon, are sent to uncover the mole. They uncover something more shocking than any Russian spy. Suddenly the agents are in way over their heads as they scramble to help save the USA's credibility. Before too long guns start blazing alongside incredible one-shot car chases, as the influence of Stanley Kubrick may or may not come into always comes back to Royal (Jeremy Irons in a pitch perfect performance that screams 'empire in decline'), the enigmatic architect who designed the building. However, as power outages become more frequent and building flaws emerge, particularly on the lower floors, the regimented social strata begin to crumble. Nihilism, drugs and alcohol feed into wanton sex and destruction all underscored by Clint Mansell's wicked music and Mark Tildesley's designs - revelling in decadent 70s chic." — Tricia Tuttle, London Film Festival this high-concept paranoid thriller.

The major achievement in this at times very funny quasi-fictional-doco is the technically impressive and seamless integration of all the kinds of footage used, and the ballsy fact that Johnson and co actually fooled NASA in a cunning meta-squared move. They got into the real NASA by saying they were filming for a student film about the making of a making of a making... okay my head hurts now... just come and see this very smart film. — AT

Films selected to keep you wide awake and rescue NZIFF from respectability by Ant Timpson, founder of the legendary Incredibly

Green Room

In an alternate universe, Captain Jean-Luc Picard is transformed into a ruthless neo-Nazi who operates a criminal empire in the backwoods of Oregon. The problem is, this is no episode of Star Trek: TNG; it is director Saulnier's punks-vs-skins follow-up to his acclaimed indie thriller Blue Ruin (NZIFF13). Much like a nastier version of John Carpenter's seminal Assault on Precinct 13, this is a classic wrong place, wrong time set-piece that takes well-worn tropes, amps them up to 11 and then stomps on their faces.

An earnestly broke but resourceful four-person Arlington punk band, The Ain't Rights, reluctantly accept a one-off gig after a long and fiscally sour tour. After polarising the jaded crowd by opening with Dead Kennedys anthem 'Nazi Punks Fuck Off', the band members eventually find themselves heading back to the titular green room to collect their hard-earned $300. Unfortunately, they walk in on something they shouldn't be seeing, which ignites into a full-blown stand-off between the terrified punks and the disordered neo-Nazis.

Entering the claustrophobic labyrinth is the calming presence of Shakespearian-trained Patrick Stewart, who makes a real meal of playing against type. The tension escalates as both sides slowly realise that the only way to end the impasse is for violence. Even with notable performances from all the cast, this is Saulnier's set and he loads up and delivers the cinematic equivalent of a great punk song: numerous short sharp jabs to the solar plexus that leave you wobbly and winded. — AT

"It's a delightfully cruel work of high tension, perfect in just how quickly and easily it gets under your skin."

Swiss Army Man

Gonzo directors Daniel Scheinert and Daniel Kwan describe Swiss Army Man as a film about a suicidal man who has to convince a dead body that life's worth living. Others have said it's a fusion of Cast Away and Weekend at Bernies as directed by Michel Gondry. The fact the duo, collectively known as Daniels, have managed to turn that morbid premise into something so outrageously fun and deeply affecting is a testament to their wild inventiveness.

Paul Dano (Love & Mercy) plays Hank, a man stranded alone on a deserted island. When he's about to top himself from sheer boredom, the corpse of Harry Potter himself washes up ashore. It's not too long before Hank realises that the corpse's extreme flatulence transforms him into a human jet-ski, sending the pair off to uncharted areas. Daniel Radcliffe plays Manny, the dead body that becomes Dano's multi-purpose tool in discovering the joys of life; together they provide viewers with the most bonkers buddy movie of all time.

Many art-lobsters who attended its Sundance premiere walked out after some hilarious, puerile moments, only to miss out on an endearing man-love tale that blossoms in some very strange and funny ways. — AT

Under the Shadow

"Infused with autobiographical elements, Babak Anvari's debut feature is a terrifying allegory of the 1980-88 Iran-Iraq War, a now often overlooked conflict that shaped much of this London-based Iranian filmmaker's early childhood.

A constantly shifting expressionistic nightmare, Under the Shadow centers upon Shideh (Narges Rashidi), a frustrated mother unable to fulfill her career aspirations because of her former political activism. When her doctor husband is drafted, Shideh is left alone with her daughter Dorsa and must protect her from supernatural phenomena brought upon their Tehran apartment by a missile attack.

At first skeptical of ghost stories,

Shideh slowly realizes that her home is haunted and gets sucked into a web of paranoia wherein malevolent djinn mess with her mind. Like any insightful work of horror, Anvari's film leaves it to the viewer to decide whether the supernatural threat is a shared reality or no more than a psychosomatic symptom - a harrowing projection of the protagonist's deranged psyche." — Yonca Talu, Film Comment

KEY TO ICONS

Notes in this brochure are written and compiled by the programmers, Bill Gosden, Michael McDonnell, Ant Timpson and Malcolm Turner. Tim Wong, Toby Manhire, Jo Randerson, Judah Finnigan, Andrew Langridge, Nic Marshall and Tom Webb also contributed notes. The brochure was edited, drawing on a wide array of writers we like, by Bill Gosden, who also wrote the unsigned notes, cribbing the occasional perfect adjective from said writers. It was managed by Tim Wong with the assistance of a squadron of ace proofreaders who labour beyond the call of duty. Views expressed in the brochure do not necessarily represent the views of the staff or trustees of the New Zealand Film Festival Trust.
